The Eugene Journal tells that a villain in that city entered the residence of a married lady at that place one night last week after the lady had retired His purpose was evidently fiendish, but the lady having been awakened by a noise in the room supposed that her husband had returned and spoke to him The invader mumbled out something in an unfamiliar voice when she began to scream for assistance but was forced to desist by the, ruffian laying the cold blade of a knife against her cheek and threatening to cut her throat. She then earnestly conjured him to flee, as her husband was expected home immediately, and would not allow him to leave the room alive. This had the desired effect and the dastardly intruder took to his heels A party is suspected.

It is hard work says the Chicago Tribune to get ahead of a determined Western man on a matter in which principle and pennies are involved together, especially difficult for the railroads to fight the masses The great bore nowadays is legal fare Passengers were in the habit of getting aboard trains and paying "legal fare." To prevent this the Chicago Burlington and Quincy Railroad devised a means of forcing passengers to pay full fare It was to make them show tickets before getting aboard At Burlington the other day, a passenger bought a ticket and took his seat He then passed the ticket out of the window to a friend who also took his seat repeating the operation until the car was filled up When the conductor came round there was no one to get legal fares enough to keep the Supreme Court in continuous session for a century But the value the Burlington business men set upon time is not revealed to us

THE WAILWAY MAIL SERVICE

[Correspondence N Y Tribune]

WASHINGTON Nov 16—The following is a summary of the annual report of Mr George S Bangs General Superintendent of the U S Railway Mail Service, which will form one of the appendices to the annual report of the Postmaster-General;

The railway postoffice cars are now in operation on most of the important connecting and trunk lines of railroad, giving the most direct and available transit to the mails between the office of origin and destination, and forming nearly a perfect connection between the various railroads upon which service is performed by route agents The following statement will give some idea of the importance and work of the railway postoffices New York originates from 50 to 60 tons of mail matter daily as shown by an official statement, 45 to 50 tons of which are forwarded on the trunk lines leading to the West and Southwest. Three of these lines—the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad, the Erie Railroad, and the Pennsylvania Railroad—leave daily over their entire length an average of 464 tons of mail, and as the bulk of the mail is deposited in the offices at the last hour possible to reach the trains, or arrives on connecting trains, it must be distributed in transit, taxing the present accommodations to the utmost—solely as the Erie Railroad is the only one furnishing such [illegible] as the Department desires

WHAT CONSTITUTES THE BULK OF THE MAILS

The statistics of New York offices show that out of a monthly average of 3 362 627 pounds of mail originating in that office, 89 per cent or 2 763,502 pounds of it is composed of second-class matter or publications issued at stated intervals sent to regular subscribers, 26 810, or 7,8 per cent, consists of letter mail or first-class mail matter, 9 12 per cent. is of third-class or miscellaneous matter, upon which the postage is at the rate of 1 cent for each 2 ounces Samples of merchandise, which have so often been said to overload the mails made only 9 20 of 1 per cent. of the whole

The statistics of the larger offices of the United States, show that 9 11 per cent. of the mail dispatched is first-class or letter-mail 70 98 per cent is second class, or regular publications sent to subscribers, and 13 91 third-class or miscellaneous matter

THE FINANCIAL QUESTION.

Though the present Congress must be admitted that it does not represent the will of the people there is no great reason why it should continue to refuse to perform the sole service for which it was clothed with legislative authority On the contrary, if it is patriotic rather than partisan, it will hasten to make up for past deficiences, to correct past errors, to remove public abuses, and to [illegible] it to the gratification of the ascertained will of the people. If it may not accomplish all that is to be desired in a three months' [illegible] it is at least capable of devising its [illegible] at that time The understanding, as the time approaches for holding the short session, is that the President, with the Secretary of the Treasury, is fixed in his determination to expedite the return of specie payments What was rumored concerning the suppression of a portion of Treasurer Spinner's [illegible] to the Secretary goes very far to confirm the belief If the spirit, to say nothing of the letter of the President's memorandum to Secretary Richardson respecting the [illegible] recommendations in his annual message, there will be no excuse left to Congress for [illegible] the subject by without at least [illegible] upon it The country waits to see what it will do The fear that constitutionally sleepy is to the meeting of the Forty fourth Congress is to be improved instead of thrown away Business in all departments, to-day and [illegible] turns on this question of a sound currency. It is the one thing that is wanted now to set the vast machinery of trade in running order. Money that is not allowed to circulate is costly and [illegible] attracting all [illegible] to exchange and therefore in a [illegible] debased and uncertain currency is a [illegible] ing prohibitory tax on exports, to be paid at last by the farmer and producer at a sacrifice of their comforts. The country to-day is full of natural productions, yet business is suffering from prolonged stagnation Money is in unparalleled abundance, yet prices are steadily shrinking and labor is [illegible] employed That demonstrates the fallacy of the theory that inflating the currency will revive business, send up prices or furnish employment to those who are in want of it.—Evening Post

ARKANSAS.—Washington Nov 21.—Representative Wilshire, of Arkansas, had an interview to-day with Attorney-General Williams with reference to affairs in that State, and says it was a satisfactory one. The Attorney-General is satisfied that if any action be taken in the matter at all, it will be by Congress, and not by the Executive Department. The Attorney-General informed him that in his dispatch to Judge Poland at Little Rock, he did not suggest or indicate that Representative Ward of the House Special Committee, should remain there but merely requested Judge Poland to come to Washington on his way home as he (the Attorney General) desired information relative to Arkansas affairs Judge Poland among other things said there was no disturbance or excitement whatever in Arkansas, and that the State was unusually quiet. It is the purpose of Representative Wilshire and Governor Low to prepare this week and file with the Attorney General a [illegible] setting the charges and all proofs of Smith and those who represent his interests. The general feeling in Washington is opposed to Federal interference.

HOW VERDI COMPOSED THE "TROVATORE."—When Verdi was putting the last touches to Il Trovatore he was visited in his study by a privileged friend That friend was one of the ablest of living musicians and critics. He was permitted to look at the score, and ran over the Anvil Chorus on the piano-forte. "What do you think of that?" said the master "Trash" said the connoisseur Verdi rubbed his hands and chuckled "Now look at this, and this" he went on "Rubbish" said the other rolling a cigarette The composer rose and embraced him with a burst of joy "What do you mean?" cried the critic. "My dear friend replied Verdi "I have been making a popular opera In it I resolved to [illegible] everybody except the purists the judges, the classicists, like you Had I pleased you, I should have pleased no one else. What you say assures me of success. In three months Il Trovatore will be sung and roared, and whistled and barrel organed all over Italy" Verdi was right, and we all (except the Russians) wish that he would give us some more barrel-organ music

TEMPERANCE IN THE TEMPERANCE CAUSE.

Having just published a full report of the proceedings of the National Temperance Union, and the Constitution upon which it works, we claim the attention of our readers, especially those of them who take an active interest in the temperance cause, to some suggestions in connection therewith. Discussion of the temperance question is always in order, and will be so long as the jails and penitentiaries, the insane asylums and the graves are constantly full of the victims of strong drink, and the source of a large per centage of the entire civilized world are made the abode of every named and every nameless form of misery by the same power. There is not the least danger that there will be untimely agitation, nor of too great diligence in keeping the question before the public mind, nor of too great earnestness in urging and exhorting.

But the manner and spirit of the plan of operations laid out by the National Temperance Union are widely different from those under which the agitation in this State has proceeded: widely different and greatly better. The truth is recognized that the question is a purely moral one in its nature, and purely benevolent in its purposes, and that therefore every spirit of [illegible] intolerance, [illegible] must be harmful. There [illegible] to revival all over the U[illegible] stirred the whole community to its foundation. So high ran the excitement that many things were done which [illegible] conservative people, [illegible] of the [illegible] not approve. The [illegible] operate people were for a while the temperance agitators, and when the [illegible] opposition to intemperance caused some, to stand aloof who had always been known as advocates of temperance, such were denounced as disguised enemies and traitors to the cause. The matter was made the basis of a political organization, [illegible] done by that organization as are generally done by persons who have misconceived the nature and scope of the subject they have in hand, and who use the means to be used to work the reform they desire. Such intolerance, such a spirit of proscription, [illegible] all who differed from them as to either means or methods, [illegible] tion in this [illegible] who did not agree with the leading spirits in all respects was publicly branded as a sot, and [illegible] other than the temperance [illegible] peted on the street as a maker of drunkards and a [illegible] ler of families, and a maintainer of bestial [illegible] Of course such [illegible] could not be just in any [illegible] the subject [illegible] was [illegible] Book of Revolution by the managers of the Temperance party on the day of our last [illegible] election a movement they were [illegible] of as a means to their reform was restored, for most of them are [illegible] people when at themselves [illegible] utter unfriendliness to all the claims of truth and justice which the excitement laid the [illegible] attack of their duly [illegible] organ, the Tew, in [illegible] the members of the [illegible] letters just after the close of [illegible] Hon. Jacob Jo[illegible] of this county [illegible] never understood as a "[illegible]." After his [illegible] of the [illegible] him to [illegible] on the [illegible] that which he declined to do, saying he intended, if [illegible] in the [illegible] if they did not [illegible] his [illegible] for the community, they would do their duty by defeating him at the polls. They did. What [illegible] him, if we are not [illegible] for him. He [illegible] in the Leg[illegible] the law prohibiting the sale of liquor [illegible] days; but he voted [illegible] the civil damage and local option bill. For [illegible] use of his opinion he [illegible] of having [illegible] was denounced in terms fit only to describe [illegible] and by being a hard-working farmer instead of a kid-gloved "organizer" in politics. Thus a man against whom [illegible] was ever uttered because [illegible] personal character and reputation [illegible] he did not go the [illegible] for [illegible] advocated by the temperance [illegible] of the question of local prohibition, and that without the shadow of truth or any appreciable motive but the spirit of intolerance of which we have [illegible] spoken.

We have referred to these cases, not from a disposition to revive old personal controversies, but because they are apt illustrations, known to the whole community, of the manner in which the temperance cause has been handled in Oregon by those who have been its loudest, if not its most influential, champions; and to contrast this with the spirit manifested by the National Temperance Union. There can be no doubt in the mind of any thoughtful person that the temperance cause in Oregon has suffered positive injury from the zeal of these indiscreet and over-zealous friends; and it will be well for the cause, and for the whole people whose cause it surely is, if the leaders of the movement profit by the lesson of their own folly and learn the lesson which seems to have been well learned by the National Union, namely, that of all reforms that of temperance is least likely to be promoted by methods which are themselves the embodiment of intemperance.

Whisky got the better of James Regan, and he went to the house of James Sheehan where he [illegible] before the door and called the proprietor a sheep thief. Sheehan went out and [illegible] with an ax. And now, upon the [illegible] New York jury, [illegible] to hard labor in the penitentiary for the [illegible]

Count de Rochambeau, of the French Legation at Madrid, [illegible] as first Secretary of the Legation at Washington. So says a cablegram.

THE EASTERN PAPER MAIL.

The paper mail from the East has already commenced to come by steamer from San Francisco. The change is rather earlier this year than by rail. The prospect is that, unless some action shall be taken to change the programme, those in Oregon who take Eastern newspapers will for the next three or four months have to await the arrival of the steamer for their papers; and as the steamers are to run but three times a month hereafter, Oregon will be reduced to three newspaper mails per month, or one every ten days. It is difficult to see what reason can be given for this state of things. There is some rough road to be encountered on the stage route between Roseburg and Redding, to be sure, but none that need occasion twenty-four hours delay in delivering the mails at any time in ordinary winter, and none which in any winter should detain the mails more than two or three days. Such short delays occurring only at long intervals would be far less inconvenient to the people who get their mails from that direction than the delays inseparable from a weekly steamer service; and when the latter, instead of weekly, is only once in ten days, the case is just so much aggravated. Under the present arrangement the daily papers accumulate at San Francisco for ten days, and then are sent up here in heaps old and new together,—the oldest being from twenty to twenty-four days from New York, and from other points a corresponding length of time. This amounts to an absolute prohibition of subscriptions in Oregon to Eastern daily papers. To the people of the Wallamet valley and farther south the inconvenience is even greater than in Portland. And it is especially inconvenient to the newspapers whose exchanges are thus delayed.

The stage company that has the contract for carrying this overland mail, entered into the contract with full knowledge of the length and nature of the route, the difficulties to be met with, and the general amount of the mail to be carried; and they doubtless took all these things into consideration in making their bid. Their engagement is to carry all the mails during all the year, upon a schedule of time which made suitable allowances for the difficulties of the route. They draw their pay according to contract, for the entire service, making no rebate on account of mails sent by steamer. This is a wrong to the Government, and a special and peculiar wrong to all that portion of the people of Oregon whose Eastern mails come by way of the Sacramento valley. The stage company, or the railway companies, who by this means got a large advantage in the performance of their service, are not to blame, as the world goes; but those who have to suffer to give them and the steamship company the profits arising from the transaction have certainly a right to protest in strong language. Mr. Underwood, the Postal Agent, has endeavored to have the evil remedied, but without success thus far. We understand he will make further effort, and we hope he may be successful, and that before long.

It cost a good deal of money to oust Sir John [illegible] in the Dominion and then it cost Sir John a round sum to get out. The last item was caused by some impertinent meddler's preferring charges which made it necessary to investigate the circumstances of Sir John's election. The investigation disclosed the fact, not that Sir John had bribed his way into office—at least so said the judgment—but that he had got his seat through bribery committed by other persons. So it was decided that the election was null and void; but inasmuch as Sir John did not do the bribing—did not know of it, we presume, they hardly ever do—he was not disqualified to sit, in case he should be elected hereafter, but that he must pay all the costs of the investigation. He is going to try it again, when another election comes round, and will see to it that the scoundrels who buy votes for him without his consent or knowledge take proper precaution against detection.

Apparently the German Government is destined to a pretty thorough hauling, in connection with the arrest of men for political offense. In the Reichstag recently there occurred a running discussion in which the course of the Government in this respect was pretty severely criticised, and some of the Deputies who went no further took occasion to say they should discuss the subject at length when the proper order of business was reached. Prince Bismarck, in reply, said no one had been able to show that any of the arrests were illegal and that he was ready to enter into a discussion of the question. There was an evident resolve among the Deputies to take up the gauntlet thus boldly thrown down by the Government.

The opening of the Nashua and Rochester railway took place on the 21st November. This completes connections in a direct line from New York to Portland, Maine. A special train, with a company of railway magnates, was sent over the line on the occasion of the opening of the new road.

The [illegible]ty of the press is still one of the essential principles of the Spanish Republic. It was exemplified on the 20th of November by the arrest and imprisonment of the editors of La Prensa, La Bandera and El Espanol. These newspapers had published matter which was declared contraband.

The official canvass of the vote in New York county gives Samuel J. Tilden a majority of 42,732 over John A. Dix. For Mayor, Wickham (Tammany) over Wales (Rep.), 33,159; over Ottendorfer, 45,988. For Register, Jones (Rep.) over Hayes (Tam.), 11,542.

A rumor is current that a treaty has been agreed upon between Germany and Morocco, whereby the port of Morocco is to be ceded to Germany.

The Chinese Government has ordered a large number of breech-loading rifles from a German factory at Witten.

A Cincinnati correspondence of 21st November to the New York Times reported Charlotte Cushman seriously ill.

There is a considerable emigration from Italy to the Argentine Republic.

CAME DOWN.—Last Sa
Co.'s splendid steamer Emma Hayward went up to Oregon City for a load of wheat. She did not complete loading until quite late in the afternoon, and a heavy cloud of fog settling over the river, it was determined to remain over night. Capt. Pease manned the wheel, than whom none are better acquainted with the channel between Portland and Oregon City, but as the Hayward was drawing considerable water, he did not like the idea of running the gauntlet at Clackamas Rapids. Yesterday the Hayward steamed down, loaded almost to the guards with grain. It was the first trip ever made by that boat to Oregon City.

THE TRANSIT OF VENUS.—This will be the subject of Rev. T. L. Eliot's lecture at the Unitarian Chapel this evening. This great astronomical event has occupied the attention of scientific minds for months. Mr. Eliot will, no doubt, make the lecture interesting as well as instructive. The proceeds are to be given to the Church Building Fund.

DEATH OF MRS. LAW.—This lady who has been matron at the "Home" for many months past, died on Friday, after a lingering illness. The deceased was an estimable lady, and left a wide circle of friends to mourn her loss. The funeral took place from the Presbyterian Church, Saturday afternoon, and was largely attended.

DR. CHANDLER TAKEN HOME.—Dr. Chandler was taken to his home at Forest Grove last Saturday. His condition remains about the same as when he was brought down from the Dalles.

VOOS VILLA DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Saturday evening about 15 minutes to 8 o'clock an alarm of fire was sounded. It was discovered to be at what is known as the Forest House, or more recently Voos Villa. This building is situated about three-quarters of a mile west of the B street bridge, nearly opposite the large and handsome residence of Mr. A. H. Johnson. With their usual promptness the Department responded, but it was found utterly impossible to render any assistance. The road was muddy, and in the darkness it was found to be impossible to drag the heavy engines for that long distance. Before horses could be obtained and the scene of the fire reached, the building would have been destroyed. Several engines were pulled by hand nearly up to the bridge where Washington and B streets intersect, with great labor and difficulty, but the effort to reach the burning building was abandoned. The origin of the fire cannot be accounted for, excepting on the theory of incendiarism. It originated in the front portion of the building—a large open room used for a dancing hall. No stove was in the room, and there had been no fire in that part of the house for two or three months. How fire could have been communicated to that part of the building, save by design, is a mystery which defies solution. The property destroyed belongs to Mr. Q. Voos, who was not at home when the fire occurred. Originally, the house and land adjoining, belonged to Mr. A. N. King. Last spring Mr. Voos leased the property for a term of five years, from the owner. He expended, in the way of enlarging the building, making repairs, laying out and beautifying the grounds, about $5,000. Sometime during the summer, Mr. Voos purchased the house and a piece of land containing five acres. Since that time he has expended an additional sum on the property. His family, consisting of a wife and six small children, were living there at the time of the fire. A little after 7 o'clock on Saturday evening, Mrs. Voos told the two oldest boys to go up stairs and retire to bed, telling them that she would presently join them. The boys obeyed and started up stairs. One of them came back and told his mother that he heard a roaring noise out in the hall like water falling on the floor. Mrs. Voos, remarking that it was nothing but his childish fears, went to the door leading into the dancing hall and opened it. Judge of her amazement and consternation to discover the whole interior of the room in a sheet of flame. No sooner was the door opened than the flames and smoke darted out in the very face of the lady, half suffocating her before she could close it again. Three small and comparatively helpless children were sleeping up stairs, and an infant, only a few months old, was slumbering peacefully in its cradle. Not a moment was to be lost as the flames had reached the second story and had almost entered the room occupied by the children. Mrs. Voos' presence of mind did not forsake her, and true to the instincts of maternity, she ran—rather flew—up stairs and snatched her children from their slumbers just as the fire was entering the room. The eldest boy took the infant from its cradle, and the family emerged from the burning building just in time to save themselves from a fiery fate. Only a few valueless articles were saved from the general ruin—snatched as the mother and children were escaping. Everything was a total loss. Mrs. Voos escaped with the dress she had on at the time, and a thin pair of slippers. The children did not have anything on but their night garments. The fire was first discovered from the outside by a daughter of Mr. A. H. Johnson, from a balcony just as it burst from the roof. Quickly as possible the alarm was spread, but the flames progressed with such astonishing rapidity that before assistance from abroad could be rendered, the whole building, from cellar to attic, was a mass of burning wood. Mr. Voos, when he learned where the fire was, mounted his horse and rode out with all possible speed to the scene. He was in a fearful state of suspense as to the fate of his wife and children until he reached what was once his home. Nothing remained but a shapeless heap of ashes and burning timbers, but he was overjoyed to find his family all safe, although he found his wife and children shivering in the cold night wind as they mournfully looked on the total destruction of a pleasant home and the sweeping away at one stroke of years of hard toil.

LOSS AND INSURANCE.

Mr. Voos estimates his total loss at $12,000, in addition to the total loss of the large building and all his household furniture, a large and splendid stock of fine wines and liquors was destroyed. He is insured in the Imperial Insurance Company as follows: house, $1,500; stock of liquors, $500; furniture and household effects, $2,000. Total insurance, $4,000. Had the building been less remote from the city, and been discovered sooner by the neighbors, several thousand dollars might have easily been saved. By this sad misfortune, Mr. Voos has lost the savings of years of hard labor and the exercise of care and economy. With a large family to support, the loss falls with peculiar weight on him.

AMUSEMENTS.

CHARITY FAIR.—This evening, the Charity Fair for the benefit of St. Vincent's Hospital, will commence at Philharmonic Hall. The managers have prepared the hall appropriately with booths, postoffice, dining room and everything calculated to make a place of the kind complete. Each department will be in charge of the fair sex, who will do their best to render the visits of all a real pleasure.

SKATING RINK.—A large crowd was present at this popular place of amusement last Saturday evening to witness the skating race for the championship of the State. The race came off at 8:30 o'clock. The following persons had entered for the race: R. H. Thompson, Charles Mead, Thos. Ogden, and George Hill. This last named person did not appear in the contest for some reason. Thompson led the way, making the circuit of the Rink 14 times (distance one mile) in 4 minutes and 4 seconds. Mead came next, time 4 minutes and 58 seconds. Ogden was the last, making the time in 4 minutes and 12 seconds. Charley Mead having made the best time, was awarded the gold medal, entitling him to the distinction of the champion skater of Oregon. The badge is of neat design and elegant workmanship. To-morrow evening there will be no music at the Rink; admission, 25 cents, use of skates free. On Thursday and Saturday there will be music as usual. By particular request, Thursday evening will be set apart for ladies and gentlemen only. No the use of ladies and gentlemen only. No small boys will be allowed on the floor. On Saturday evening there will be races again. The first [illegible] Masquerade Carnival will take place on Tuesday evening, December 29th. Another Promenade concert will soon take place.

By virtue of the authority of General Court-Martial Orders No. 81, from the War Department, of November 4, 1874, and instructions from the Adjutant General's Office, dated November 13, 1874, communicated through Headquarters Military Division of the Pacific, Major John Green, 1st Cavalry, and 1st Lieutenant Melville C. BUSINESS NOTICES.

The drug store, corner First and Ash streets, is offered for sale.

Mr. J. H. Roberts is located at 98 First street, where he will do a general brokerage business. See card.

Harrington is manufacturing cider for the trade, and makes it known through the advertising columns.

Jno. Pinnen, late of the Havana Cigar Store, has removed to his new store, First street, near Alder, with a new stock and everything very inviting. Call.

Sugar toys and all things that are nice in the confectionery line, will be offered to loving parents and all who like sweet notions, from this day henceforth, by Alisky & Hegele, who are making a grand display of their holiday goods. Christmas and New Year's are not far distant and it is not too early to make purchases. Country dealers should send in their orders now. As heretofore, the firm will get up those delicious "pan roasts," which are a popular dish. Oysters, the home and foreign article, always ready; fresh and palatable.

W. Jackson & Co., the well-known dealers in china and crockery ware, announce their holiday stock in another column. Among the very attractive goods offered are a full assortment of French dinner and tea sets, a late importation, silver plated ware, cake baskets, card receivers and an endless variety of articles calculated to make suitable presents on Christmas and New Year's. We looked through the stock and find it complete in every particular, and now we advise our readers to make an inspection. The opportunity should not be lost.

PAUSE WHILE YOU READ THIS! The season for parties and balls has arrived and the cold dreary days and nights of winter will soon visit us. Every young man, old man and boy for that matter, likes to present a neat appearance when attending parties, the theater, or walking about the streets. They likewise desire to be well provided against the cuts of snow and hail rain. What contributes more to the personal appearance and comfort of a gentleman, or boy, than a nice closely fitting suit of clothes, set off with a heavy warm overcoat? Why will any one be so foolish as to go without either, when BECK & WALDMAN have everything in that line. Beck & Waldman in buying in their immense fall and winter stock of clothing have exercised great care, and selected with reference to the degrant of trade. They have purchased their goods low and are determined not to be undersold. Let the public note this fact.

For breathing the Gases, use HAYNE'S EXPECTORANT.

REMOVAL.

JNO. PINNEN, dealer in the finest brands of TOBACCO, will be pleased to see his old patrons and the public generally at his new store, First st., two doors north of Alder. New brands of Cigars just received.

The roll of blankets which were stolen a few days ago by the two house-breakers from Yamhill—Cook and Wynt—has been identified at the Police Court.

Last Friday, during the necessary absence of Prof. J. W. Johnson, Principal of the High School, Superintendent S. W. King assumed charge of the school, and conducted it very successfully.

Cook and Wynt, two individuals who enjoy several aliases, have been sent up to Yamhill in charge of the Sheriff. These worthies, it will be remembered, broke into the house of Mr. Brickell, who resides in that county, last week and stole a number of articles.

The first invoice of holiday goods will be opened to-day at B. L. Stone's jewelry store. His connections with the leading San Francisco and New York houses warrant us in saying that something very attractive will be displayed. It will pay you to look in and see the new goods.

FASHIONABLE OUTFITS.—Attention is again called to the extraordinary opportunities which are just now being afforded by the extensive clothing house of JOS. KOHN, opposite National Bank. There is no place in the State where a larger or finer assortment both for gentlemen, boys and children will be found. At all times the prices have been the lowest known to the market, but at the present time it will be found that they have been greatly reduced. Mr. Kohn keeps constantly on hand a large and superior stock of furnishing goods and underwear.

In addition to their large and varied assortment of brooms, brushes, wood and willow ware, Zan Bros. & Co. have just opened the greatest variety of bird cages and door mats ever seen in Portland. The stock is immense and the variety almost infinite.

To Shake, or not to Shake?

Aye, that is the question. Is it better to quiver from head to foot in the paroxysms of fever and ague, or to banish the atrocious disease by a course of that standard anti-febrile remedy, Hostetter's Bitters. There cannot be much doubt as to the response of the malaria-stricken to this inquiry. From every locality on this continent whose inhabitants are tormented with the shivering plague comes an increased demand for the only genuine preventive and eradicant of malaria provided by science. The denizens of fever and ague districts will know how utterly inadequate to do more than give a brief respite are the so-called remedies of the faculty. Quinine, arsenic, bismuth—what are these but palliatives, which cause a fever a thousand to produce a chronical effect forever, and ill persist in wreak irreparable mischief upon the system? Everywhere they are being abandoned, by intelligent persons, and that genuine vegetable specific for fever, ague, remittent and remittent disease, Hostetter's Bitters, substituted in their place.

BEN BUTLER

Gath's Correspondence Chicago Tribune]

Now that Ben Butler is dead what fair thing may be said of him that, if he had been considered to say nothing of scruples he would have been less of the incarnate Yankee than he has been Nature never produced since James I such a whimsical and brutal intermeddler He has seldom been equalled for ability after his kind —a sort of political pugilism backed by method and memory and rarely lacking audacity by fair fidelity after he has made friendship except with persons qualified to collect his contiousness Vanity of his talent is his weakness He leaves behind him a public rather than a personal hate and his abusive and coarse humor have always soften I the feelings of the crowd toward him The last acts of his Congressional career were not damning acts of all—his fraternization with spies and shadows and strong disposition toward imperial backmailing No public man can fool with performers habitually and be safe In this only, a young man of reputable birth and former good esteem is now on trial in the criminal court for a burglary common old how or what or whence, is still a mystic but whatever the measure of his guilt may be if any has been forced familiarity with detectives, as Counsel Atty Gen led the way Butler was thumped all round He undertook to conduct a campaign against all the reputable of the age antagonizing it above while the secret crevice pierced it below

It is probable that he will live in Washington city hereafter as he owns considerable property here, and there is a mint of law and lobby business always flowing around Government, which will compensate him better than Boston or Lowell practice His own house on Capitol Hill the very next of all dwellings to the Capitol and Court of Claims is nearly finished—a granite edifice with stone bays and ---- porch, uniform with two adjoining houses which he has let to the United [illegible] for the term of [illegible] at $6,000 a year Doubtless he will entertain and keep offices there and build up practice as scores of retired public men have done here—Jerry Black, Stanton Robert J Walker, Fred Stanton, R M Corwin Generals Denver and Crittenden and Governor Bartley He is rich, but not thrifty His life lacks the simplicity of aim and method which gives discipline and method. It works like an old style press too intricate and lobd and self shattering for its single purpose All the Government could not overturn him but his little home constituency did so without a threat He retired from Rome victorious like Coriolanus, but the people who had received him as a stranger, struck him down in Autumn,

Even so—
As with a man by his own alms empoisoned
And with his charity slain

A STRANGE STORY

[Davenport, Iowa, Gazette, Nov 18.]

Thirteen years ago a young man wooed and won a young lady in a village not far from Davenport The parents of the girl objected and there was a deal of trouble but finally the couple were married at the home of the bride. Three months after the bridegroom desired to move to California but the family of his wife opposed her emigration, and the result was that the husband started for the Pacific coast without her After the first few months no tidings from the husband were received—and in less than a year news came that he [illegible] In 1868 the widow married a young man who had recently arrived from Germany and her second husband was entirely ignorant of the fact that his bride was a widow. But where "ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be so" Shortly after the marriage the husband purchased a farm in Scott county, and on that farm the couple have lived ever since, and several children have blessed their union Four weeks ago the first husband of this woman arrived in Davenport and making inquiries, learned the history of his wife's marriage Then he rode out to see her It was a [illegible] her legs lord was away from home, for she was very much affected She told him [illegible] and so married another and chided him for neglecting her as he did. He had a long story [illegible] and the end determined never to return until he became rich And here he was—rich! But his wife was miserable in her choice and he was [illegible] too. The end of the conference was, that the first husband returned to Davenport to consult a lawyer—and the end of the consultation was that the husband went to the wife and had another long talk with her, and the two [illegible] never to meet again for the man determined to cross the ocean and spend the balance of his days in Germany The day that he left the wife entered her suit for divorce, on the ground of desertion, the notice was forthwith served on the defendant and he accepted service At the next term of the Circuit Court the defendant's name will be called and there will be no response There will be default, and decree of divorce granted And maybe the wife will be married a second time to the father of her children and so remain contented in the delightful home in which she now lives in elegance and comfort

A Steam Engine Beyond Control Makes a Disastrous Wreck —Newark, N J November 2 —[illegible] According the coupling of the main shaft of the engine at Clark's extensive thread factory in this city became detached, and the engine of 700 horse-power being relieved of the machinery acquired such a tremendous momentum that in a moment it was [illegible] The driving-wheel, which weighed 22 tons, was broken up, and a [illegible] weighing two tons flew through the roof of the engine house, a distance of 60 feet, crashing through a foot-bridge 100 feet distant and finally imbedding itself in the ground There were several narrow escapes, but no one was injured 150 poor girls some [illegible] and without friends in the country will be thrown out of employment for the winter

Wealth of Two Foreign Universities —The universities of Oxford and Cambridge are among the largest land owners in England They own 319 718 acres, [illegible] throughout England and Wales, and this land, as a rule, is of considerable quality There are tithe charges which bring them in a yearly income of $454,570 they get $270 725 yearly from houses and $306,690 from stocks and shares. Taken together, the income of these two great universities in 1870 was $3,722,025—a sum which may well make our chief American colleges unhappy to contemplate [illegible] of this must goes to the heads of hotels, fellows and exhibitioners The chapels absorb twenty times as much as the libraries Only the sums of $35,490 at Oxford, and $7,[illegible] at Cambridge go to the payment of professors.

This is the description of a dress worn by a young lady of Marshall, Texas, at a recent evening party

"The dress represented the first flag of the Confederacy On her arm she bore the flag adopted by the Confederate Provisional Congress On the lower skirt were stars for the States with the name and seal of each State on the center, photographs of Confederate Generals were on the upper skirt, together with pictures of the Alabama and Sumter, on her shoulders were streamers with the successful battles [illegible] and chains were on her arms a [illegible] of the United States was on her head and a flag above them was a black veil representing the gloom thrown over them This was fastened with the dagger of oppression

An anxious mother in Allegheny Penn, lately sent a note to the teacher of her little boy, which read "Dear Sir My little boy is look'n so bad and he dont complane of been sick I am afred the large boys plays so ruf with him will you please see that they dont stand him on his hed and dont let them be ruf with him he cride all nite before last with his head cant git him to one that envy of them hurts him he wont tell me envy thing they dooe to him will you please let him play with the little gurels as he is so small you can see yourself that he eys looks bad and I am onknowing about him please knotise and take coer of him he is so young"

A liquor dealer up in Coos county N H got all a barrel of whisky from Portland, Me., a time ago The barrel came, was tapped, and its contents freely drank of By and by a dance was given near by, and such fun [illegible] were made upon the barrel that the morning after the dance found it exhausted. That evening the gentleman received a letter from the Portland house from whom he had purchased, saying "Send back the barrel we sent you last week at our expense immediately By mistake we sent you burning fluid instead of whisky"

Latest Liverpool advices depress the market Pacific coast wheat ranged from 9s 10d @ 10s 1d for average and 10s 4d @ 10s 10d for club per cental The London market is quoted at 44s 6d per quarter for average quality just shipped and 49s per quarter for average nearly due at Queenstown

The usual short day of the week as Saturday is our local financial matters present no change worthy of extended notice the general impression being that affairs are growing slightly easier and some believe that we have passed the close period in the season) There is no doubt that the supply of money in bank is rather better than it was two weeks since but it is a fact attributable more to the result of a sort of accidental combination of circumstances affecting our trade interests than to any permanent change in the direction of the circulating capital of the country, and a few weeks a draft in the grain and produce movement might be reasonably expected to render the money market again uncomfortably but not seriously close The manner in which the business of the season has been conducted has kept off any embarrassing stringency so far and we trust the remainder of the winter will be got through with under quite as favorable circumstances.

Commerce of the Nation

The New York statement of import export and customs receipts is complete from Jan 1st to Nov 30th, leaving less than seven weeks remaining of the year of 1874 From its totals sundry deductions are made by the S F Chronicle The imports have decreased from $849 246 658 in the same period of 1873 to $718 836 60 during the portion of this year under review, but the revenue received upon the commodities has fallen from $119 1 118 in 1873 to $104 818 016 plainly showing that sundry taxes require revision to prevent the decline of trade and that the more lightly burdened goods are brought from abroad in larger quantities than those which pay heavy custom duties The export returns on the other hand are exceedingly encouraging showing an increase of nearly thirty six millions—i e from $256 089 197 to $ 293 017 2 This however includes foreign goods re shipped from New York in each case but as the imports have only been valued by a sixth of the exports the inference is strongly in favor of a growth of home productive trade The exports of specie have increased from $14 561 356 to $40 908 683 an advance which so closely approximates to the rise in the imports as to suggest that the extra foreign commodities have been paid for in gold; finally the Treasury has had to part with $61 8[illegible] for the payment of gold interest in the course of this year against $60 01 299 in 18 which leaves a surplus of gold received over that paid out of nearly forty three millions. All things considered therefore the present year of 1874 is likely to show a considerable improvement in the national affairs.

General Trade.

In trade circles as usual on Saturday buyers in the wholesale market are not so numerous on other days of the week, while the retail business is perhaps the heaviest of any day in the week There are no fluctuations of importance to note to-day Dry goods of leading lines are firm while collected stocks contain many articles offered at declining rates. In groceries, coffees and some brands of sugars and syrups are tending to firmer quotations salt is steady provisions generally firm with a disposition on part of holders to claim advanced rates The breadstuffs and grain market shows no change Dairy products are liberally supplied and weaker eggs quotable at 27@28 per dozen dressed hogs sell at 6@7c, the latter for choice Other products are generally in full supply at unchanged rates.
